

CLEARING HOUSE

By THE EDITOR

Plans are now being made for the Christmas convocation which has always been an interesting and enjoyable occasion. This year there will be songs by the Men's Glee Club, a short talk by the President of the University, some announcements and general singing of the audience under the leadership of Miss Lewis. This convocation will be a lot of fun, and students will miss something if they are not present. Memorial hall ought to be filled. It will give us a good start for the Christmas holidays.

A Successful Conclusion

Because the anti-syphilis campaign is to last only two more weeks, we hope that every student will attend the motion picture showings and see the library exhibit, to help in bringing the program to a successful conclusion. Any organizations wishing to engage a speaker on the subject should see a member of the Kernel staff.

The Foreign Student

"My Dear G. C. G.—and all the rest who feel as you do: I not only regret your attitude toward the campaign of the YW and YM, I feel sorry for you. The purpose of bringing a Central European student to our campus is not to educate him, but to save him from the confinement of a concentration camp or some worse cruelty. We can offer him more than just financial help, which is all that we could give to one of our own students. Then, too, he would be an asset to our campus."

Christian Ideals

"Primarily... we desire to show those students of Central Europe and China that the students of America who claim to be Christians and care for their brothers... really do care enough to do something about it... Then, too, any nation that is far sighted enough, as China is, to continue the education of her youth during war time... deserves all the help we can give her... I think I can be safe in saying that those students of this campus who contribute to this relief fund are the ones who give most to our own needy students."—S. P.

Taking It Back

"Dear Sir: About three weeks ago I wrote to you about the pitiful condition and way the sports page was handled. I take it all back. The way it was handled in Friday's Kernel makes me take it back. I guess I am a sports fanatic but I hate to see good stories wasted on a messy page. Give my congrats to Joe Creason on his fine column on the Rose Bowl selection. It is the first comment I have seen that combines reason and humor. Keep up the good work."—A. R.

We can't always be sure of Tuesday's paper because it is usually pretty crowded, but we'll do our best to make a good display in Friday's issue.

To Be Or Not...

At the Kentucky Intercollegiate Press convention at Danville, Friday and Saturday, quite a bit of discussion arose over the question of whether the editorial page is out-moded, and whether it will eventually be replaced by the personalized column. We would like to have some opinions on the subject. Do you think the editorial page serves a definite purpose or do you believe that it is useless?

My Friends...

Another writer, J. F. K., who complained of the lack of intra-mural news a few weeks ago, notes that on Friday "The entire paper seemed improved, especially headlines on the sports page." According to the writer, even the columns were better.

Notes To Professors

Here are some complaints concerning professors on the campus, picked up in classes and from students.

Why do some instructors teach so-called facts which they obviously do not believe?

Why do some instructors act as if they are afraid to say what they actually think?

Why do some instructors insist on written or oral answers which do not allow for any thought, but which must be couched in the words of that instructor?

Why do some instructors insist on 100% class attendance and mark off when the student who cuts three or four times during the semester makes better grades on tests and daily in class than the 100% attendance student?

Why do some instructors conduct classes in such a way as to insult the intelligence of their students?

Here are some complaints concerning students on the campus, picked up from professors and graduate students.

Why do some students expect the instructors to do all the work?

Why do some students cheat themselves by cutting classes so often?

Why do some students learn everything by rote memory rather than by using facts gained to think for themselves?

LAST RITES HELD FOR PROFESSOR

Alfred Charles Zembrod Dies At Home; Was Formerly Department Head

Funeral services for Alfred Charles Zembrod, professor emeritus of the University and for many years head of the Romance languages department, were held yesterday at the First Presbyterian church. Professor Zembrod died Saturday morning at his home, 456 West Fourth street, following an illness from which he had suffered since his retirement from the University four years ago. He was 74 years old.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Frances Farra Zembrod, and one sister, Miss Lena Zembrod of Zurich, Switzerland.

Born in a castle on the Rhine, Chateau du Rhine, in Zurich, Switzerland, Professor Zembrod came to this country at the age of 21 to escape military service in Germany.

He became French instructor at Kentucky University, in 1885, and two years later added German to his courses. In 1893, he went to Heidelberg, and six years later returned to Transylvania. In 1906 he transferred to the University where he taught for 28 years. He was (Continued on Page Three)

Tri-Delt Mildred Croft Reigns As Kentuckian Beauty Queen

Phi Delt Herbert Hillenmeyer Is Named Most Popular Man On Campus

Against a background of tuxedoed men and hoop-skirted coeds, Mildred Croft, Delta Delta Delta, was selected queen of the campus beauties at the 1938-39 Kentuckian dance Saturday night in the Union ballroom.

Attendants in the order named are Jeanne Barker, Alpha Gamma Delta; Ramona Perkins, Kappa Delta; Virginia Smith, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Dorothy Bond, Kappa Delta.

Herbert Hillenmeyer, Phi Delta Theta, as the most popular man at the University, shared honors with the queen and her court.

Presentation of the beauty group and the most popular man was made on a three-tiered dais with a backdrop representing a huge 1939 Kentuckian cover. Bouquets of roses were given to the winners by members of the Kentuckian staff.

Kentuckian Editor Sidney B. Buckley conducted the ceremonies.

Followed by the attendants, the beauty queen and the most popular man led the grand march which was terminated in a special queen's no break.

From a group of thirty candidates representing 10 campus organizations, the queen and her court were selected by five judges. The most popular man was chosen by the vote of the student body.

Jack Coffee with his Rocking Rocking Rhythm band furnished the music.

The march progressed and the music was changed to—"Boola, Boola."

Then came—"Notre Dame Victory March."

Students watching the affair glanced around to make sure they were at the University of Kentucky.

Cats Defeat Georgetown 39-19 In Thrill-Void Tilt

By JOE CREASON

Before 3,000 customers in Alumni Gym, the 1938-39 basketball season was ushered in Friday night as Coach Adolph Rupp's Wildcats, playing a listless game, rolled over the Georgetown Tigers by a 39-19 score.

The only pleasing feature of the dull, thrill-void game was Kentucky's air tight defense that held Georgetown to one field goal the first half and five during the entire game. So savage and close was the Wildcats' man checking defense that the Tigers were given few open shots and most of their attempts were so rushed that they missed the bank board completely.

From the opening whistle it was evident that making a basketball game of the contest was the farthest thing from the minds of the Tigers. Their only aim was to hold the score in check. This they did by holding the ball, fouling and even tossing the leather from the game when Schaefer, Tiger guard, became vexed when a foul was called on him and bounced the ball so hard on the floor it flew into the bleachers. For this Mr. Schaefer was given an ear-splitting Bronx-salute. Except for occasional splutters,

Leading the roundtable discussion on advertising was John H. Morgan, Kernel advertising manager. Kernel Editor L. T. Iglehart as president of the KIPA, presided at the sessions.

Climaxing the first day's program was a banquet for delegates held at the Kentucky College for Women. Tom Underwood, editor of the Lexington Herald, was principal speaker.

Discussing qualities of good journalism, Mr. Underwood stressed accuracy, saying that never in our history has there been a time when accuracy of reporting was more needed than at present.

A business session Saturday morning closed the meeting. It was decided that the next meeting of the association would be held at the University in April.

Good Costuming, Novel Stage Effects Streamline 'The Rivals' To Success

By GEORGE LAMASON

Beautiful costuming, novel stage effects, and excellent characterization combined to make the Guignol's presentation of Sheridan's "The Rivals," which opened last night for a week's run, one of the best plays seen on the boards of the Little Theatre for several seasons.

At the beginning of the play, the characters, in dancing costumes, were posed as a framed picture of a garden scene in Bath, England.

The famous comedy of stolen interviews, numerous suitors, and unreasonable jealousies, is almost entirely a farce with the minor plot of Falkland and Julia a sop to the love addicts.

Mrs. Malaprop, who offers the greatest possibilities for humorous character delineation, is played to perfection by Dorothy Dyer Rhodes. The character's "nice derangement of epithets" were delivered in the actress's excellent stage voice and the malapropism "parts of speech" received just the correct emphasis.

Attractive Barbara Smith as Lydia Languish, that strange combination of extravagance and simplicity who thought elopement a prerequisite to successful marriage, was the quintessence of feminine loveliness.

Choleric generous Sir Anthony Absolute was well characterized by Robert Hobgood but the part of his son, Captain Jack Absolute, played by Clarence Geiker, lacked finesse and impressiveness.

Effective handling of dialect made the part of Sir Lucius O'Trigger (Sam Nuckles) one of the best in the piece.

C. R. Lisanby decisively carried off the slapstick antics of Bob Acres. Others in the cast who are to be commended for their acting are Carl Conner (Faulkland), William Tudor (David), Sarah Elizabeth McLean (Julia), Barbara McVey (Lucy), and Jesse Mountjoy (Page).

Frank Fowler, director of the Little Theatre, was assisted by George White Pitman of the English department as associate director, and Elizabeth Mosely as assistant director.

With a cast of fifteen University students, the premier production of a Biblical drama, "The Blood of Rachel," written by Cotton Poe, professor emeritus of the University, and poet laureate of Kentucky, will open for a week's run December 12 at the Guilford Theatre.

Frank Fowler is producing director with Mary Wood Brown as associate director, and Elizabeth Brown as assistant director.

Building Healthy Bodies And Minds

The intramural contests, which are now creating such enthusiastic student interest, have definitely carved a place for themselves in the athletic program of the University.

Approximately 1,000 students, many of whom are unable to participate in the intercollegiate activities, now fulfill their desire for athletic competition in the enjoyable and healthful exercise of intramural sports.

Although intramural sports have existed on the campus since 1905, it was not until 1928 that these activities were recognized, at the request of the students, and included in the athletic program. As a result of this recognition, the program has expanded each year to include more kinds of competitions and more participants.

At the present time, fifteen of the most prominent team and individual sports are woven into a year-around schedule. All have gained in popularity yearly, and many of the contests draw large crowds of spectators. When admission is charged, the proceeds are turned back to the students in the form of equipment or trophies which are secured to supplement the donations of fraternal and honorary organizations on the campus.

In all contests, emphasis is placed on the important fundamentals of health and discipline—both mental and physical. The intramural department deserves commendation for its success in fostering these contests and for its sponsorship of good sportsmanship and fair play.

How To Be Happy Without Spending Money

For several weeks, a group of YWCA and YMCA workers have been conducting supervised recreation periods for children of the reform school. Daily from 4 to 7 p. m., the children are required to assemble in the center room of their cottages, and heretofore nothing has been planned for this period.

It is for this reason that the two campus groups go out on Monday nights. They are making the few hours a little more cheerful and are teaching the children how to entertain themselves when the groups are not there. There is also another purpose for the visits. The YM and YW hope to get acquainted with the youngsters and perhaps aid them when they are released.

The women's group plans games for the girls and teaches them how to make useful articles in their spare time, while the men's organization supervises athletic matches for the boys. Because the institution is lacking in magazines and books, our campus groups are asking other organizations at the University to help make these hours a real recreation period by donating old magazines and books that would be suitable for these children.

Since meeting the YM and YW groups the children eagerly look forward to Monday nights. They know that there will be something different and they also know that someone is interested enough to help make a few hours more enjoyable.

Any and every campus organization can take part in this program by helping plan the activities and by donating discarded magazines and books. It is entertaining work and it gives you that peculiar personal "glowing feeling" which results from helping others.—N. O.

What About The Others?

The following note was received recently: "I seem to detect a note of triumph in your news and editorial columns concerning syphilis. This may be all right, but if I remember correctly, only 1900 tests were given. What about the other 1700 students?"

That rather "stumped" us for awhile, but then came this answer. In the first place, 1900 is not the final total. A small number of students visit the dispensary each day to take the tests which will be given during regular office hours until the Christmas holidays. And even only 1900 seems to be a fairly large representation when you consider that the Wasserman was not compulsory. Very few campus activities, requiring that all students do the same thing, command that attendance.

Secondly, because the purpose of the campaign is primarily educational, it is not absolutely necessary to test everyone, although it would be much better that way. In addition to that, we feel that those who are more qualified to benefit by education and to instruct others are the ones that have taken the tests and are attending the showing of films during the days before December 17.

In other words, we feel that this program has reached and influenced the better students and the more civic-minded individuals on the University campus.

Behind The Eckdahl

By ANDREW C. ECKDAHL

Miss Martha Hume, a member of Delta Delta Delta, a sorority, was berating us the other night about this and that and one thing and another, and especially about the fact that Delta Delta Delta, a sorority, was never, or at best infrequently, mentioned in this column.

To quote Miss Hume, "You are always blowing up the Alpha Gams and the KD's, and writing about Miss Pat Hamilton who is a Kappa."

We were not aware that we were slighting Delta Delta Delta, a sorority; in fact, we were hardly aware of Delta Delta Delta, a sorority. It's just a case of not knowing how the other half lives.

And the editor seems to have some naive idea that a humor column should make people laugh. Therefore it behooves us to write items that are funny. And anyone with the perception of a schoolboy can see that it is difficult to write humor about something that is beyond our ken.

But to appease the wrath of Miss Hume—every time we see her we feel that she is going to rasp out "off with his head" and have somebody hustle us off to a guillotine—we find it necessary to write something about Delta Delta Delta, a sorority.

So for the benefit of those interested, we list the following facts concerning Delta Delta Delta, a sorority:

1. Delta Delta Delta is a sorority.
2. Miss Martha Hume is a member.
3. The president is Dot Hillenmeyer. Or is it Herb?
4. All of the Deltas are spelled the same.

We could tell by the expression on our puppy's face when he was about to lose his tail that he was going to enjoy it no end.

Corny Joke Department

(Lifted from a talk given by the Lexington Herald's Mr. Tom Underwood at the recent Kentucky Intercollegiate Press Association banquet.)

It was in a recent political campaign. One of the state's fiery rabble rousers was swinging into action when he was interrupted by a voice from the crowd, as follows:

"What about the national debt?"
"Well, what about it?"
"What are you going to do about it?"
"How much is it?"
"Forty-one billion dollars."
"Well if you are going to kick up any row, I'll pay it myself."

An Editor Says

If that joke doesn't have a dirty meaning it isn't funny, and if it does have a dirty meaning leave it out.

Heard at the dance: "Say, just who is this Mildred Croft anyway?"

We would like to dispute the old adage about square pegs not fitting in round holes. There are many students on the campus who are block-heads and fill the zero ranks notably.—L. B.

May I enlist the aid of your column in banding together those of us who still enjoy music as a natural to start an immediate campaign for the formation of a new society? It would be called the Association for the Prevention of Swinging Christmas Carols.

—Wake of the News" in Chicago Tribune.

We don't make a point of going around correcting the blunders of our fellow publications, but one Miss Sonia Berkowitz, an ag student, wishes it known to one and all that her telephone number is 5253-Y. NOT 5353-Y as listed in the Student Directory.

"Is Chamberlain England?" asks the Indiana Daily Student. We don't know, but pose a similar question about Germany and we will take a stab at answering it.

Hi Yo Silverman, away.

In The Control Room

A PORTRAIT BY BETTY ROBERTS

You hear her voice every week if you listen to the "Remember When" program originating on the campus each Tuesday afternoon, red haired, lovely Betty Roberts. She left Lexington six years ago to visit New York and liked it so much she stayed and continued her schooling there. However she's back in the land of the Bluegrass now as a freshman major in Journalism.

Her voice, which is husky and natural, is a delightful combination of a contralto and blues singer. Her favorite orchestra is Benny Goodman and her favorite song is Night and Day.

An assignment on her high school paper introduced her to Noel Coward, and since then she has had a terrible crush on him (we wish someone would interview us). She reads all his books and sees all of his plays when she is in New York.

Last summer she was offered an acting job in summer stock touring New England but turned it down. Her ambition is either to be a creative writer or actress. Her favorite professor is psychology's Dr. Henry Beaumont. Her pet peeve is classes at eight.

Her most avid radio fans are her sorority sisters and members of the radio staff. Next week I will give a portrait of Alan Vogler, head announcer.

Kay Kayser's College of Musical Knowledge (Wednesday 9 p. m., WLW) presents a question and answer program which is comparable to professor Quiz.

Last Wednesday Kayser imitated the voice of President Roosevelt saying, "My friends, and asked the girl who it was. The reply created a ripple of applause throughout the studio audience. She answered, obviously thinking of Jimmy Durante, "A man with a big nose."

The story broke in New York radio circles recently that Thomas Dewey, district attorney, had been taking lessons on mike technique for campaign purposes, realizing fully the powerful potentialities of a good radio voice in securing votes. We shudder when we think of the results when Alan Vogler, senior law student and head announcer, runs for political office.

A local broadcasting station will be on hand at Stoll field tomorrow afternoon to bring to radio fans an account of the East-West football classic. What girl from Pitt Hall recently sang over WLW under the pseudonym of Betty Hewitt?

Mary Louise McKenna gets too little publicity for her able vocalizing each week on campus programs. Tom Pike, law student and make-up man on The Kernel, continues his fine dramatizations of "The Complicated Lives of Jake and Jonah" over WLW at 1:30 p. m. Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Tom writes all dialogue and acts all the characters, a somewhat remarkable feat.

Torso tussles come and go but Saturday's beauty-fest was one of the worst examples of contract breaking we've had yet. Reggie Childs seems to have taken his date with the Kentuckian very lightly. The orchestra who played duet tunes to the uncrowded ballroom was Jack Coffee, Hotel Gibson band, who had a tough break when the front loud speaker wouldn't work. According to loyal supporters of the Gibson, Coffee's aggregation is tops, but going by unbiased opinion, it wasn't so hot.

An unusual occurrence, designed to acquire a pedestal among college incidents, is the birthday party Prof. Farquhar instigated for Patty Field Van Meter. He announced the birthday, had Patty stand up, and presented her with a present while the class sang "Happy Birthday To You!"

Sherman Hinklebein (maybe you've heard the name before) looked up one day last week, grabbed a pair of binoculars (not literally) and spotted an entire wheel of his new car resting serenely on the roof of Kinsdale hall. They say the Hinkle is a bit stingy with his pet buggy and that the dismantling was a protest.

That's a funny one—diminutive Sara Biggs and her date were on a double with last year's Delt prexy Eddie Beck and Doty Babbitt. They all soared in Benton's and sat down with Frank Davis. The catch to the whole thing is that Sara dated Eddie and Eddie dated Doty last year while Doty dated Frank consistently until lately. Alan Vogler is on one of those trips they're giving away this year.

Ten people were actually waiting impatiently for the second floor of the library to open at two o'clock Sunday afternoon, that spring-like fourth of December. Don Irvine's father told him he could go to New York if he promised not to get a job more "funny one's" next time.

This gem is lifted from the column of an acquaintance writing for the Purdue Exponent.

Scene in Grill: curtain rises on lovely lass munching sandwich ardently—
Ollie Montgomery: "Frances, what are you doing eating? Aren't you going out for lunch?"
Frances Hardwick: "Yes, I'm going to the Phi Tau house but I thought I'd better eat before I went."

Did you know that the same year Bill Tracey won his varsity football letter in high school he won a first prize in the biscuit making contest? And did you know that Stan Hayes is an ex-West Point cadet? And that Dameron Davis once saved Mack Hughes' life by giving him two blood transfusions close together when he could have stopped with the first? And that Fowler Pritchard is one of the rare people who have absolutely "perfect pitch" and that he made Phi Beta Kappa this year?

I sipped the sweet nectar from her lips.
As under the moon we sat,
And I wondered if any other sap,
Had drunk from a mug like that.

Tidbits: Bee Ficklin's man from Baltimore came down to see her Thanksgiving. . . . Mary Kay Bolland and Beau Brummel seen at Benton's. . . . also attractive Janc Baynham and Dick Swope. . . . not to speak of darkhaired angel Helen Babbitt and Scott Breckinridge, who seems to be habit-forming where Helen is concerned, and brother John with a satin-encased Agnes Gilbert. . . . Joe Cerason beaming at a table with his one-and-only from Murray who was down for the week-end. . . . Ari Shaw's "Nightmare" theme song is worth a couple of dozen trips to the Cottage to hear. . . . Louis Barker, to his surprise, had a date the other eve. Bravo! . . . Harry Williams tells the most interesting lion stories and here are some "handed in" anonymous morsels: Chi Delta Phi President Kadell Dorn seems to be doing awl-right, at least she's considered a "goddess" by the English department! . . . Bernice Naylor is flashing a diamond—they say it's Kenneth Morgan. . . . Had you noticed Mary Ellen Ferguson's sudden ambition for Tau Beta Pi? It was well founded. . . . and anonymous quote. Thanks.

Here's an anonymous contribution that bears the earmarks of intrigue: What's the relationship between Vashdi Albert and Sid. "No time-for-females" Smith. Reliable to 9 in favor of Vashdi. . . . Our independent Snooper returns with "Bob Sullivan must have it bad, for he went all the way home to New York for Thanksgiving to see his one and only." Thank's for your help in "Covering The Campus" Aron.

Simpson Will Speak To YM-YW Groups

Achievement Of Quality Will Be Author's Topic At Talk Tonight

Bill Simpson, lecturer and traveler, will speak on the achievement of quality in human life before the Y's Club at noon in Room 23 of the Union, and before the YM-YW cabinets and Freshman Club at 7:15 p. m. tonight in the Y room.

The Pitkin Club will hear Mr. Simpson at noon Wednesday in the Maxwell Street Presbyterian church.

Mr. Simpson has associated with various levels of society and has traveled over the world seeing life through the eyes of the members of each level.

The spirit and beliefs of Mr. Simpson are expressed fully in his book, "Toward The Rising Sun," published in 1935 by the Vanguard Press with a rather full biographical introduction by Prof. Jerome Davis, then of Yale University.

Prof. H. H. Tweedy, also of Yale, pronounced this "an amazing book by an amazing man." Anthony M. Ludovici, chief translator and interpreter of Nietzsche to the English speaking world, said, "It is a most inspiring exhortation, and I read the chapter next to the last in a real frenzy of agreement."

Program Of Bach, Sowerby, Franck, Darke Played With Pleasing Finish

By BEE FICKLIN

WHATEVER BECOMES OF FOOTBALL STARS?
Yale's Famed 1927 Back Tells You
After graduation, what? Do football stars wind up as stumble-bums, or make good in the world? Last week, Dr. Hutchins razed college athletic careers. Here's a reply, from the "quintuple-threat" back Grantland Rice, from the tops eleven years ago. He tells frankly how he and other stars are making out, and why wise ones, he says, leave "pro" football alone.

This is the story of Suzanne, for whom a whole new life began that evening in June when a young stranger tied his horse in front of her father's log cabin. WHATEVER BECOMES OF FOOTBALL STARS?
Yale's Famed 1927 Back Tells You
After graduation, what? Do football stars wind up as stumble-bums, or make good in the world? Last week, Dr. Hutchins razed college athletic careers. Here's a reply, from the "quintuple-threat" back Grantland Rice, from the tops eleven years ago. He tells frankly how he and other stars are making out, and why wise ones, he says, leave "pro" football alone.

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST

Thirty-Two Men To Battle For Titles In Maul Finals Thursday

Calling 'Em Wild

By JOE CREASON

WHEN you say that, pull in your ears and duck podner!

In case you are one of those guys who has contended so long and so vehemently that the type of football played by Kentucky high schools is inferior to the calibre of other states—you'd best fold up your tent and sneak through the nickel seat exit with the Arabs. The East-West charity cletastic unfurled on Stoll Field Saturday afternoon was convincing evidence that Kentucky prep school talent ranks with the best in the nation. Old timers scratch their heads and think back through the years and still recapture recollections of but few games that were better played or more evenly matched than Saturday's scoreless deadlock.

Ordinarily sitting for two hours through a score-void game is as distasteful as leaving the dinner table before the steak is served, but the all-star presentation, despite the lack of six points, was as full of thrills as a ten-cent detective magazine.

Probably the best proof that Kentucky high school football is rated highly is evidenced by the number of schools that had scouts at the game. Out of state representatives swarmed to the game like moose to a free lunch. For example, I sat within whispering distance of Joseph A. Mower, University of Cincinnati coach, and scouts from Vanderbilt and Xavier, all who sat with note books in hand taking names of players who caught their eye. From a reliable source comes the word that 9 of the Southeastern Conference's 13 teams had contact men at the game. That's conclusive proof that Kentucky school football is rated high. And just what sort of a show did the boys throw for the visitors and customers? As a shot in the arm for your memory, think through the following incidents.

East Threatens First

Late in the first quarter, with Rucker, Ball and Howard alternating at the driver's seat, the Eastern team drove from their own 42 yard line to the West 5, where the line of scrimmage was drawn, with first down and goal to go. Four tries at the line netted but two yards and the ball was turned over to the West and was immediately punted out of the danger zone. Then the West put on their first offensive show of the afternoon. After taking the ball on their own 27 yard line, the Blues, or West, followed 59 yards to the East 14 before the drive was stymied on downs. Thus in the elapse of less than three minutes both teams had made serious scoring bids.

But even more in the line of fireworks was to come. The third quarter had aged but four minutes when the Westerners moved to the Maroon, or East, 1 yard line before turning over the leather. Taking the Eastern punt-out, on the Red 39 another drive was launched that moved to the 11. Here the Eastern line dug in and bounced the ball back to the 16, from which point Sengle of St. Xavier, Louisville, made a desecrated scoring bid with a field goal attempt. With the ball resting 15 yards from the South side on the field and with the goal posts offering little more than a 15 degree angle at which to aim, the attempt was wide to the right but a few feet.

As The Game Closed

Then came an Eastern drive that transformed the lightly paraded stadium into an outdoor arena. Taking the ball on their own 20 after the field goal try and with seconds left on the timer's clock, the East drove to the West 2-yard line. The punt was taken on the 35 and another drive was started that moved to the 5 and that was repulsed only after an Eastern field goal attempt from the 11 had gone far wide.

Verily I say unto you, when two teams, the members of which have played different styles of ball under different coaches all season can get together and in one week acquire the coordination and team work so manifest Saturday, there's plenty of talent running loose some where.

Socksnapshores

In the words of the prophet—"He who socks—gets socked," or words to that effect.

Just in case you care to see the wisdom of that axiom carried out to the letter, drop around to the Gym annex tonight for the semi-final round of the Intramural boxing tournament. Just a warning, if perchance you like your boxing sitting down, be on hand early because seats for late arrivals are as scarce as Marines at a Natal reunion.

A marked feature of the bouts so far has been the number of knockouts, and believe you me, you never know when one of the frigidaire punches is coming. Perhaps that's what moves the customers temporarily into screaming insanity at the matches. Honestly, the gym is actually aircooled by the air stirred up by the waving gloves.

This Is A Ringier

Probably a bit off the beaten path, but a recent paper item arrested my attention. It seems that off-

Georgetown was concerned the game was over. With Curtis leading the way Kentucky had moved into a 23-7 lead at the half time intermission.

Georgetown's second field goal of the game came after seven minutes of the second half had elapsed when Bridges found the range from far out and followed it up with two other loopers in quick succession. The lead was sliced to 25-17 before Clugish broke the charm by jamming a follow-up shot down the hump. The other Tiger field goal was made by Rudy on a sneaker play and a long pass down the floor with but five minutes remaining in the game.

The box score:
Kentucky (23) — Georgetown (17)
Goodman (2) — P. — (3) Bridges
Farnley (1) — P. — (1) Neale
Thompson (7) — C. — Quinlan
Rouse (4) — C. — McLaughlin

Union Open House Set For Thursday In Recreation Room

Union open house will be held from 4 to 5:30 p. m. Thursday in the Recreation Room of the Union, Homer Thompson, chairman of the house committee, announced today.

The date has been changed from Friday to Thursday as the house committee wants all students, organized and independent, to take full advantage of the recreation offered, Thompson said.

Punch will be served during the dancing and card playing. Records requested by dancers will be heard over the loudspeaker. Members of the house committee are to be the hosts and hostesses.

Peggy Ann Weakley is in charge of the refreshment committee, and Jean Megerie will serve.

Opportunity Offered Students To Learn Elements Of Chess

A chess club, organized for the entertainment of students who are already familiar with the game and for the purpose of teaching the rudiments of chess playing to students who wish to learn, will meet at 7:30 p. m. every Thursday in the Union building.

Students, whether experienced players or beginners, are invited to attend the meeting on December 8. Donald Pennock will teach beginners the rules, moves, and general principles of the game. Crittenden Lowry, chairman on the Union activities committee, states that while the game is often represented as one which is very difficult to play, this is not strictly true, and those students who desire to learn and who attend the meeting Thursday will have some knowledge of the game at the end of the meeting.

The bid was refused by Hinkelbein because each player taking part in the game will be given expenses and $100, thus removing his amateur status and making him ineligible for the track and swimming teams, of which he is a member.

Engineers Will Hear Address By Thomas

Public Is Invited To Attend Friday Assembly In Memorial Hall

Dr. Phillips Thomas, research engineer for the Westinghouse company, will address the engineering assembly at 10 a. m., Friday, December 9, in Memorial Hall.

In connection with his lecture Dr. Thomas will demonstrate a number of the latest developments in electrical apparatus.

Dr. Thomas obtained his Bachelor of Science degree from Ohio State University and his degree of Doctor of Philosophy from Princeton, where he was for a time an instructor in electrical engineering.

Officials of the College of Engineering announced that the lecture will be open to the general public.

Wildcats Will Play Wesleyan Saturday

The basketball game scheduled for Friday night with Southwestern in Memphis, Tenn., has been cancelled and instead the Wildcats will meet Kentucky Wesleyan college Saturday night in Alumni Gym.

The Southwestern battle was originally billed for Saturday night with Coach Rupp carrying his Cats to Memphis but at the request of Tennessee officials the bout was rearranged for Friday. When another postponement was asked, Kentucky decided to call the whole thing off and booked Wesleyan to fill the gap.

YM-YW Will Offer New Study Course

A "How to Study" course will be sponsored by the University Service committee of the YW and YM, with the first session being held Tuesday, December 6 in the Y rooms. Dr. C. C. Ross, head of the educational psychology department, will be in charge of the three sessions.

The second discussion, "How to Write a Term Paper," will be held Tuesday, December 13 and the final session, "How to Review for Examinations," will be conducted Tuesday, January 10.

ALUMNI GYM SELECTED AS SITE OF LAST INTRAMURAL WARFARE

Survivors of two rounds of rigid eliminations—32 strong from the starting field of 80—will face the final barrier of the 10th annual Intramural boxing and wrestling tournament Thursday night in Alumni gym.

The final scene was shifted from the Gym annex to the more spacious Alumni gym in order to care for the capacity audience that is expected to view the fights. Last year the finals attracted 1,500 fans who screamed their appreciation of the battles. The semi-final round of the wrestling tournament was held last night with the boxing semi-finals due to be contested tonight in the Gym annex.

GRIDDER SPURNS ALL-SOUTH OFFER

Sherman Hinkelbein, Kentucky football captain during the past season, turned down an invitation yesterday to appear in the annual North-South all-star charity football game because participation in the classic would destroy his amateur standing.

The bid to appear with the Southern stars was extended Hinkelbein last Wednesday by W. A. Gunter, mayor of Montgomery, Ala., where the game will be played. The Dixie team will be coached by Frank Thomas, University of Alabama mentor, while Carl Snavely of Cornell will lead the Northern eleven.

The bid was refused by Hinkelbein because each player taking part in the game will be given expenses and $100, thus removing his amateur status and making him ineligible for the track and swimming teams, of which he is a member.

4,000 Shivering Fans Witness Charity Game End Scoreless

By JOE CREASON

In a game so closely contested all the way that one postage stamp would have mailed both teams, two hand picked teams of Kentucky high school football stars—one from the West, the other from the East—battled to a 0-0 tie Saturday afternoon on Stoll Field.

The game was played under a slate-colored sky that threatened rain any time and on a field that had been transformed into a veritable quagmire by the early morning downpours. The uncertain weather held the attendance to 4,000 brave fans who sat in shivering huddles near the entrance ramps. All the proceeds above actual expenses were turned over to the Lexington unit of Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children to be used in its work.

So evenly pitted were the two teams that it was only fair the game should have ended without a winner. From start to the final gun it was "Me and My Shadow" in music set to the tempo of pounding cletes. But the game was not void of thrills as time and time again both teams threatened to score. But that last 5 yards—the heartbreak highway that leads to the six point dough—the all-stars found practically impassable.

To pick an individual star would be as futile as looking out over the Atlantic and picking the best wave. But to mention such names as Clark, Davis, Althaus, Clower, Sengle, and Morgan from the Western team, or Rucker, Ball, Mergenthal Caudill, and Willis from the Eastern team, is to recall individuals who were outstanding at one time.

The first scoring threat was made by the East late in the opening quarter. After an exchange of punts the Reds, or East, took the ball on their own 42 yard line and pushed to the Western 25 before losing on downs. Clark, West quarterback, from punt formation, booted straight up and the East recovered on the 15 and then moved to the 3 before four downs halted the drive.

Then the West opened the offensive throttle, and with Clark leading the way, retaliated by rolling to the Red 14-yard line before losing the ball on downs.

The second half found the West making the first threat, moving to the opposing one yard line before surrendering the leather. Then taking the punt out on the 34, Althaus, on an end around curved his way to the 11. From the 16, Sengle attempted a field goal but the try was wide its mark.

In the closing minutes the East made a serious scoring attempt. From their own 20 they drove to the opposing 2-yard line where the drive was stopped. On last down Willis attempted a field goal from the 11 yard line but the boot got no farther than his slippery shoe. As the game ended the West held the oval on their own 20.
